Nixon, Khrushchey Discuss Top Issues

6-Hour Talk Is Described As "Helpful"

Agree Their Kitchen Debate Hard-Hitting But Not Belligerent

MOSCOW (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Premier Nikita S. Khrushchey met for nearly six hours Sunday in what was described as a serious discussion of major differences dividing the United States and the Soviet Union.

Spokesmen for both men declined to say afterward whether the meeting brightened prospects for an East-West agreement on the future of Berlin.

Nixon was known to have been prepared to tell Khrushchey in plain language the West will stand firm in the dispute over the divided city.

After his long meeting with Khrushchey, the vice president said only that the talk was "helpful" because it provided an opportunity for frank and complete discussions in a calm and objective atmosphere.

Earlier, the two men agreed that their kitchen debate last Friday was hard-hitting but not belligerent.

The setting for Sunday's talks was a grassy knoll overlooking the Moscow River.

After the lengthy meeting, Nixon returned to the U.S. Embassy residence and immediately drafted a detailed report of the conversation for President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

No Easing Of Tension Hinted

A Nixon press aide hinted that the meeting — the sixth between Nixon and Khrushchey since the vice president arrived Thursday — did not ease any of the problems now straining East-West relations.

The aide, Herbert G. Klein, said a farewell meeting between Nixon and the Soviet Premier was not ruled out when the vice president returns to the Soviet capital after a five-day trip to Leningrad and Siberia.

Nixon leaves by plane Monday morning for the tour.

The two men talked at Khrushchey's big cream-colored country home, or dacha, 20 miles outside Moscow. Flanked by First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan and Frol R. Kozlov and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Khrushchey played host to Mr. and Mrs. Nixon at lunch on a grassy tree-shaded knoll overlooking Moscow River.

The party went for a motorboat ride on the river, during which Khrushchey stopped eight times to shake hands with bathers on the sandy beaches.

Then they called in an American and a Soviet reporter, accompanied by an American and a Soviet news photographer, and told what they had been doing. The two reporters took notes and agreed on a pooled report of what had been said.

Nixon and Khrushchey took the unusual step of reviewing the notes and agreed they reflected accurately what had been said.

Neither Offended

The joint account thus relayed to the world said neither was offended by the blunt talk last Friday when the two men debated on the threshold of the electronic kitchen of a model American home in the U.S. exposition in Sokolniki Park.

The exchange, they said, was "hard-hitting, direct, frank — but not belligerent."

Dressed in a cream-colored sports shirt with a lace-trimmed collar, Khrushchey turned to Nixon and asked: "Were you offended?"

"Never," said Nixon. "Mr. Khrushchey and I have some real and honest differences but we are alike in this respect: we both came from humble families and both have a practice of speaking directly and not beating around the bush."

"We both believe this is the way to discuss — always frankly and

Soviet Boss' Dacha Huge, Plush Affair

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Nikita Khrushchey's two-story, stone, river front country home is set in a green forest of birch and pine trees. It is behind a 12-foot concrete wall but just 100 yards from a public bathing beach.

Overlooking the Moscow River in the town of Usova, a half hour drive from the Kremlin, the spacious home was finished only three years ago.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, admiring the Soviet leader's dacha—the Soviet word for summer home—said it was better located than President Eisenhower's Camp David retreat in the mountains of Maryland, a two-hour drive from Washington, D.C. Khrushchey's luxurious home is just about as large as the President's mansion in Washington, the White House, without its executive office wings.

Inside the house there is old-fashioned style furnishing—a mahogany paneled living room, a large dining room with heavy bright blue draperies and a first floor west wing suite of rooms which the Niksons occupied for their overnight stay.

Khrushchey's hideaway has just about everything for luxury living, including pleasure boats, a private beach, pretty rose gardens, fountains, a little open summer house overlooking the Moscow River and the gracious setting of a verdant forest.

Water System Failure Brings Crisis To Town

ROY, N.M. (AP) — "If a fire breaks out, we just better get all the marshmallows and weinies out of town and enjoy it."

That's how one street corner philosopher summed up the fire and water situation in this thirty northern New Mexico town. The village's water mains are broken and there has been no community water supply since Wednesday. There are a few wells in town and the owners are supplying water to anyone who asks for it.

The situation arose when the town's 14-year-old water main—made from a low grade wartime pipe with a life expectancy of eight years—sprung leaks and lost as much as 20 per cent of the water it carried.

The pumps on the town's two wells—seven miles north—were so old and battered they couldn't get up enough pressure to force water through the leaky pipe.

The result: The village's water storage tank is bone dry.

Roy has money, but because of a state law regarding an earmarked budget, it cannot transfer funds from surplus accounts into the water works account to pay for new pipe, pumps or the drilling of wells closer to town.

The state can't help either—at this stage: The community borrowed $68,500 to install the wartime water main 14 years ago. It hasn't paid off the debt and can borrow no more. Another source of funds for village emergencies turned out to be for unincorporated villages only—Roy is incorporated.

The water shortage forced the town's two cafes to close. There was no water for drinking, coffee or dishes.

The Mesa Hotel—named for the high, flat type of country where the little town is located—closed because it couldn't give patrons any water for bathing.

The village obtained a water truck from a highway contractor to use Sunday to haul water from the wells — where water flowed freely but wouldn't go through the leaky pipe—to the town's storage tank.

Townpeople were hauling water in almost every conceivable container — buckets, jugs, wash tubs. The objective was to get water back to town, no matter how it was done.

Perry Como's Mother In Serious Condition

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The mother of television star Perry Como was reported in serious condition Sunday at Mercy Hospital.

Lucia Como, 77, of nearby Canonsburg, underwent an operation Friday night for the removal of some infected tissue.

Como, who kept a vigil at the bedside over the weekend, said she has been a diabetic for many years and her illness resulted from complications of that condition.

Herter, Lloyd Move To Seal Western Rift

Confer In Private On Possible Terms For Berlin Truce

GENEVA (AP) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd of Britain conferred in private Sunday night in an apparent move to work their way back to harmony over the terms of a Berlin truce.

There were mounting indications of a Western split over truce terms as Lloyd appeared for dinner at Herter's villa Sunday night. Details of the discussion could not be learned.

The dinner was reported to have been on Lloyd's initiative. He flew back to London over the weekend for consultations with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. At noon Sunday he sent word to Herter from London he would like a private talk at the first opportunity, and Herter promptly invited him to dinner.

U.S. Officials Concerned

Some American officials said frankly they were worried about Lloyd's seizure of initiative to bring about an early summit meeting at the expense of lowering the West's announced terms for a stopgap Berlin settlement. The French and West Germans also were reported concerned.

Ever since the Soviet Union touched off the current Berlin crisis last November, the Western powers have been insisting they will stay in West Berlin as long as Germany remains divided. The Americans have declared again and again they will not agree to a summit meeting unless Western rights in West Berlin are secured in the foreign ministers conference, now entering its ninth week.

Lloyd's Proposal

It is against this background that Lloyd has proposed going to the summit with an agreement that provides something less than Soviet assurances that the West's rights in West Berlin will remain intact up to the day Germany is reunited.

Lloyd's idea, expressed to the conference last Thursday, was that the outlines of a Berlin truce could be decided at Geneva and that final acceptance of this interim agreement could come at a meeting of heads of government.

Associates say Herter has never had any idea of lowering the basic Western terms for a Berlin truce but Lloyd is portrayed as believing the Russians will not accept these terms.

"The Cat" Uses Up Nine Lives

NEW YORK (AP)—Police say they finally caught "The Cat" — with the milk still on his whiskers. "The Cat" was the nickname police had for a busy Brooklyn burglar.

On most of his forays he stopped to help himself to some milk from the refrigerator—hence the nickname.

But Saturday, police said, he used up his nine lives. He had pulled eight burglaries without incident. On the ninth he let the refrigerator door slam.

It roused the man of the house. "The Cat" fled. The household pursued, shouting for help.

They identified him as James Stevens, 29, of Brooklyn.

Why did he drink the milk?

He told police it calmed his nerves.

Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson. Toasting President Eisenhower's health, Khrushchey told Nixon: "I, like all my colleagues, like your president."

Desperado Dies In Flaming Barn He Used As Fort

ROCKY MOUNT, Va. (UPI) — The charred remains of ex-convict Earl A. Smith, who killed two persons and critically wounded a third during a two-day reign of terror here, was recovered Sunday from the ashes of a barn.

Only a belt buckle, a few bones and the powerful hunting rifle that killed a helpless man and his baby daughter and nearly spelled death for trooper J. H. Martin of Stuart, Va., identified the blackened hulk as Smith.

There was speculation the 30-year-old Smith might have killed himself. State Trooper D. L. Peer, who helped pull Martin from the killer's barn fortress, said he heard a muffled shot. It was the last sound heard from Smith until the fire exploded the rifle shells by his side.

The blaze, touched off by tear gas grenades lobbed into the barn from two armored cars, helped searchlights illuminate an eerie scene as a tense 100-man posse and some 1,000 spectators ringed the building where Smith had been holed up nearly 24 hours on his grandfather's farm.

The barn had been peppered with submachine gun fire and tear gas shells for hours and Smith's father, Roosevelt Smith, made a tearful request through a loudspeaker for his son to give up.

Smith had forced a friend, whom police refused to identify, to drive him to the barn about 5 a.m. e.d.t. Saturday, 23 hours before his body was recovered.

He had been hiding in a thick woods since Friday morning after he ambushed, shot and killed Marvin Whorley, 21, followed Whorley's wife to her home near Bassett, Va. Kicked down the door and shot the couple's 8-month-old daughter, Margie Lee, through the heart as she lay cradled in her grandmother's arms.

Devastating Debra Breaks Up In Texas

Hurricane Causes Millions In Damage

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Devastating Hurricane Debra became a widespread low-pressure area that touched off heavy rains in northeast Texas and Oklahoma as it drifted slowly northward Sunday.

Skies cleared along the Texas coast where Debra did damage estimated in millions of dollars by smashing business houses and homes and leveling crops Saturday.

One person who was reported as still missing made his way back Sunday to the campsite from which he had disappeared. He was Arthur Gilliam, 47, of Houston who disappeared from a fishing shack as 100-mile-an-hour winds turned a prairie on Chocolate Bay, near Alvin, Tex., into a howling 15-foot sea.

W. W. Gilliam, 57, also of Houston, saved his son, Paul Thomas, 7, and himself by clinging for 11 hours to the door of a fishing shack until it drifted to high ground.

"We took shelter in the shack and then the storm hit it and it just busted up," Gilliam said. His brother, Arthur, jumped out a window.

The older man continued: "I yelled at my brother and he said he was all right. I saw my brother once but when I looked again I couldn't see him."

A family from Sweeney, Tex., was found unhurt in their ground-level cabin cruiser. A Coast Guard search began after they were reported missing on Chocolate Bay. The tropical storm broke up after raging into the Texas coast between Galveston and Freeport with winds up to 105 m.p.h.

Travel into Galveston, isolated by the storm, was suspended.

Housewife's Tip To Police Trips Felons

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A tip from an alert housewife Saturday night led to the arrest of two escaped convicts who kidnaped an elderly Virginia man and held him hostage for three days.

Mrs. Robert Beard spotted the two men walking down a street on the outskirts of Washington, Pa., about 30 miles south of Pittsburgh, and telephoned police. The men, both unarmed, surrendered meekly.

The FBI said the woman recognized the convicts from posters circulated throughout the community and notified police.

James E. Hall, 37, of Rocky Mount, Va., and Connie E. Platt, 27, of Severn, Md., were ordered held for return to Fairfax County, Va., on kidnapping charges and unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

Their arrest ended a search which started earlier in the day when Peter M. Nielson, who once tailored suits for former President Harry S. Truman in Washington, D.C., drove into a service station near Washington and blurted out:

"Please help me."

The 79-year-old man, still clad in his pajamas, told the attendant he had been held a prisoner by two escaped convicts for three days. He was tired but otherwise unharmed.

Johnson Seeks Compromises On Top Issues

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) opened the way Sunday for compromises with the Republicans on civil rights and other major issues in a drive to enact a record of achievement in Congress.

Casting himself in the role of the leader of all the Senate—not just the Democratic majority—Johnson said he thinks it is his mission to "do something" rather than to permit a paralysis in divided government.

"That's our program," he told Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.) on a radio-television program recorded for Massachusetts and Texas stations. "I think the people sent us here to do our job rather than to make issues or to play politics."

"We won't be able to do everything that I would like to do, but I believe that the bills that Congress passes will do all that a majority of the Congress and the President will agree can be done now."

In offering to work with the Republicans, Johnson said he feels "that the majority leader of the Senate must, in effect, try to be a leader of the Senate, not just the Democratic party."

In this mood he predicted passage of a "good" labor reform bill. He said he expects Democrats to find "some area of agreement" with Eisenhower on housing legislation. He made no mention of a possible attempt to override Eisenhower's veto of the housing bill.

He said the Senate "will not hesitate to take another look" at wheat and tobacco control legislation if Democrats can find common ground with the Republicans on measures to replace the wheat and tobacco bills Eisenhower vetoed.

Tremendous Crowd Roars Its Approval

Gunfire, Railroad Wreck, Prison Riot Mark Celebration

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro Sunday night accepted the mandate of a roaring crowd of close to a million to return to Cuba's premiership. He pledged himself to push the ideals of his revolution and confound its enemies.

The mighty crowd went wild when it heard the news — first from President Osvaldo Dorticos and then from Castro himself.

Most Cubans had suspected it was coming. For Castro, on this sixth anniversary of his 26th of July movement, it was a moment of supreme triumph as well as a spectacular display of his own strength and popularity.

Members of the crowd threw straw sombreros into the air as the announcement was made that Castro would return to the job he left nine days ago. The tumult lasted more than five minutes.

Castro resigned a week ago in a move to oust ex-President Manuel Urrutia. In a subsequent television appearance he answered appeals for his return by saying his decision would be left to the people at Sunday's demonstration.

Castro had invited half a million farmers to march on Havana Sunday to demonstrate the nation's support for his revolutionary program.

Best estimates were that twice that number of persons — including visitors and Havana residents — were jammed in and around the plaza when President Dorticos announced Castro's return.

Undisputed Strongman

Castro smiled at the crowd's response and threw his own military cap into the air.

The rousing demonstration for Castro went on for about a quarter hour despite pleas by Maj. Raul Castro, his younger brother, and by the president for quiet.

He showed Sunday that, in or out of office, he is the undisputed strongman of Cuba.

He dominated the day-long program from the opening military marchpast—in a reviewing stand, aboard a helicopter, astride a Sherman tank directing artillery fire at a target in Havana Bay, and at microphones of a TV-radio broadcast.

Wild gunfire opened the celebration at midnight.

Here and elsewhere in the island nation half a dozen persons died. The wreck of a train bound for Havana killed one man. A guard's rifle fire killed a prisoner during a riot of convicts. A farmer deemed crazy was shot by police. Three persons, including a policeman, were killed in Santiago, where Castro's uprising against Fulgencio Batista was launched with an unsuccessful attack on a military barracks July 26, 1953.

Prison Inmates Riot

The inmates of Holguin civil prison rioted when one prisoner was killed by the discharge of a guard's rifle. The rioters set fire to a section of the prison and were reported to have caused about $70,000 damage.

At least one man was killed and 25 injured when a train bringing farmers to Havana collided with a locomotive in Havana's railway yards. About 285,000 of the farmers arriving for the celebration have come by train.

A 60-year-old farmer, who apparently became crazed while watching television, was shot to death by police. He attacked police with his sugar-cane knife and chased one into a police station before he was killed.

The extra-inning International League baseball game between Rochester, N.Y., and the Cuban Sugar Kings was suspended when excited fans, including army officers and police, began shooting into the air in the post-midnight celebration. A spent bullet hit the protective cap of Rochester's third base coach Frank Verdi but he was not injured.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) opened the way Sunday for compromises with the Republicans on civil rights and other major issues in a drive to enact a record of achievement in Congress.

Casting himself in the role of the leader of all the Senate—not just the Democratic majority—Johnson said he thinks it is his mission to "do something" rather than to permit a paralysis in divided government.

"That's our program," he told Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.) on a radio-television program recorded for Massachusetts and Texas stations. "I think the people sent us here to do our job rather than to make issues or to play politics."

"We won't be able to do everything that I would like to do, but I believe that the bills that Congress passes will do all that a majority of the Congress and the President will agree can be done now."

In offering to work with the Republicans, Johnson said he feels "that the majority leader of the Senate must, in effect, try to be a leader of the Senate, not just the Democratic party."

In this mood he predicted passage of a "good" labor reform bill. He said he expects Democrats to find "some area of agreement" with Eisenhower on housing legislation. He made no mention of a possible attempt to override Eisenhower's veto of the housing bill.

He said the Senate "will not hesitate to take another look" at wheat and tobacco control legislation if Democrats can find common ground with the Republicans on measures to replace the wheat and tobacco bills Eisenhower vetoed.

Although agreement has been reached on 17 proposed articles of the 30-odd expected in a test ban treaty, basic problems remain unresolved. U.S. negotiators see the principle ones as:

1. Control post staffing.
2. The method of inspecting sites of suspected explosions and the criteria for deciding when to inspect. The West insists the inspections should be determined by scientific yardsticks. The Communists want a politically decided procedure.
3. The veto, which the Reds still demand on matters the West deems important. Moscow wants to be able to say "nyet," for instance, on the funds which would run the control system.
4. Studies on the detection of underground tests, which the Soviets have refused to undertake.

Tremendous Crowd Roars Its Approval

Gunfire, Railroad Wreck, Prison Riot Mark Celebration

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro Sunday night accepted the mandate of a roaring crowd of close to a million to return to Cuba's premiership. He pledged himself to push the ideals of his revolution and confound its enemies.

The mighty crowd went wild when it heard the news — first from President Osvaldo Dorticos and then from Castro himself.

Most Cubans had suspected it was coming. For Castro, on this sixth anniversary of his 26th of July movement, it was a moment of supreme triumph as well as a spectacular display of his own strength and popularity.

Members of the crowd threw straw sombreros into the air as the announcement was made that Castro would return to the job he left nine days ago. The tumult lasted more than five minutes.

Castro resigned a week ago in a move to oust ex-President Manuel Urrutia. In a subsequent television appearance he answered appeals for his return by saying his decision would be left to the people at Sunday's demonstration.

Castro had invited half a million farmers to march on Havana Sunday to demonstrate the nation's support for his revolutionary program.

Best estimates were that twice that number of persons — including visitors and Havana residents — were jammed in and around the plaza when President Dorticos announced Castro's return.

Undisputed Strongman

Castro smiled at the crowd's response and threw his own military cap into the air.

The rousing demonstration for Castro went on for about a quarter hour despite pleas by Maj. Raul Castro, his younger brother, and by the president for quit.

He showed Sunday that, in or out of office, he is the undisputed strongman of Cuba.

He dominated the day-long program from the opening military marchpast—in a reviewing stand, aboard a helicopter, astride a Sherman tank directing artillery fire at a target in Havana Bay, and at microphones of a TV-radio broadcast.

Wild gunfire opened the celebration at midnight.

Here and elsewhere in the island nation half a dozen persons died. The wreck of a train bound for Havana killed one man. A guard's rifle fire killed a prisoner during a riot of convicts. A farmer deemed crazy was shot by police. Three persons, including a policeman, were killed in Santiago, where Castro's uprising against Fulgencio Batista was launched with an unsuccessful attack on a military barracks July 26, 1953.

Prison Inmates Riot

The inmates of Holguin civil prison rioted when one prisoner was killed by the discharge of a guard's rifle. The rioters set fire to a section of the prison and were reported to have caused about $70,000 damage.

At least one man was killed and 25 injured when a train bringing farmers to Havana collided with a locomotive in Havana's railway yards. About 235,000 of the farmers arriving for the celebration have come by train.

A 60-year-old farmer, who apparently became crazed while watching television, was shot to death by police. He attacked police with his sugar-cane knife and chased one into a police station before he was killed.

The extra-inning International League baseball game between Rochester, N.Y., and the Cuban Sugar Kings was suspended when excited fans, including army officers and police, began shooting into the air in the post-midnight celebration. A spent bullet hit the protective cap of Rochester's third base coach Frank Verdi but he was not injured.

Senate Red-Faced Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — Explosive Senate reaction has left the measure usually gives to the most routine of noncontroversial bills.

Senators, who like to think they are members of the greatest deliberative body in the world, deliberated less than two minutes over a proposal that has caused a greater uproar in the Communist world than any recent action taken by Congress.

When it was called up on the unanimous consent calendar, Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-NY) got up to thank the members of the Judiciary Committee for expediting the resolution.

Keating took less than a minute to express the hope "that those who now suffer from oppression and have the tyrant's boot on their necks may once again breathe the air of freedom."

Sen. E. L. Bartlett (D-Alaska) got permission to put in the record a statement which Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) said, among other things, that passage of the resolution would strengthen the hands of the free world representatives in the Geneva conference.

The presiding officer intoned: "Without objection, the resolution is passed" and the measure was on its way to the House.

Atom, Anti-Sub Plane Planned

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Martin Co. said Sunday the Navy has awarded it a one-year, $127,000 research and development contract to study airframe designs for a nuclear powered, anti-submarine warfare seaplane.

The contract is part of an overall Navy program which Vice Adm. J. T. Hayward described to Congress last April 21 as "an orderly development" aimed at putting a nuclear seaplane in the air "by 1964." Adm. Hayward is assistant chief of naval operations for research and development.

He told Congress the Navy's 1960 fiscal year nuclear seaplane program involves an expenditure of two million dollars and the total amount spent by the Navy for the fiscal years 1955-59 was $12,400,000.

W. G. Street, propulsion department manager in Martin's nuclear division, said the design studies would be based on aircraft using turboprop engines and would concentrate primary attention on propulsion work under way elsewhere on development of an indirect cycle engine.

Martin's designs will utilize heavy shielding around the aircraft nuclear reactor, he said, in order to minimize the danger of exposing crew members or equipment to radiation.

The American flag first was officially unfurled at George Washington's camp grounds at Middlebrook, N. H., in June, 1777.

Tawes Spares Rapist's Life

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Baltimore steelworker sentenced to die in the gas chamber for the rape of two women has been spared by the plea of one of his victims.

Isaac Bullock 29-year-old Negro, was convicted April 17 and 18, 1958, of raping a white student at Johns Hopkins Medical School and a Negro housewife.

Gov. Tawes, in his first commutation of a death sentence since he took office last January, ordered Saturday that Bullock serve two consecutive life sentences instead of being executed.

In a statement accompanying his commutation, the governor said he was acting at the request of Judge Anselm Sodaro, who presided at both trials. The governor had refused to grant clemency in the case last April.

In a July 15 letter, Judge Sodaro wrote Tawes that the young student "strongly urged that her assailant not be executed because even though the experience to which Bullock subjected her was indeed cruel, his death would cause her even more mental anguish than the crime for which he was sentenced."

6-Hour Talk

Khrushchev said, "I agree, and perhaps your correspondents can get in touch with ours so we will have a similar version."

Khrushchev, turning to the American newsmen, said some press accounts of the Friday talk sounded as if the vice president and the Premier were "quarreling and offending each other."

In the give and take, Khrushchev and Nixon accused each other of making threats and giving ultimatums. Khrushchev boasted Soviet rockets were "better than yours" and said the United States and the U.S.S.R. could not speak the same language until American foreign bases were abolished.

During the exchange Nixon's voice took on an angry tone on several occasions and Khrushchev flushed to the top of his bald head. Nixon's press spokesman said Nixon, by agreeing with Khrushchev Sunday did not mean to imply criticism of Western reporters' accounts of the Friday meeting.

The pooled account of the Nixon-Khrushchev boat ride said Khrushchev would stop at a beach, point to the bathers and say, "captive people."

The swimmers would reply, "No, no. Peace and friendship." Nixon, using some of his newly learned Russian, would answer, "Peace and friendship."

The Soviet press, following the Khrushchev lead, has been bristling with denunciation of "Captive Nations Week," proclaimed by President Eisenhower. The President approved a resolution by Congress calling for prayers for Soviet satellite nations.

Kennedy Dares Hoffa To Sue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chief counsel Robert F. Kennedy of the Senate Rackets Committee Sunday reeled off a list of accusations against James R. Hoffa and challenged the Teamsters president to sue for libel if he could disprove them.

Appearing on the nationwide television program "Meet the Press" (NBC), Kennedy charged that Hoffa has "sold out" members of his union, misused union funds, made collusive deals with employers and put gangsters into important union posts.

Kennedy invited Hoffa to sue "immediately" and challenged him to agree to resign his union post if he lost the suit.

Just before Kennedy's appearance, Hoffa appeared on the rival CBS program "Face the Nation." He confirmed reports that his giant union intended to enter the political arena to try to defeat members of congress with anti-Teamsters voting records.

Elopes Twice, Returns Unwed

EASINGWOLD, England (AP) — Pauline Dunhill, 17, returned unwed from a double elopement Sunday, saying "Perhaps I'm not the marrying kind."

Four weeks ago, Pauline went to Gretna Green, Scotland, where youngsters may marry without parental permission, with Ken Robinson, 27-year-old farmer.

But two days before they were to marry, Pauline ran off with the best man, David Lawn, 18.

"Dear Ken: 'I have gone off with Dave. I'm sorry to do this to you but you always said my happiness came first.'"

Happiness was brief, as David ran out of money and Pauline ran home to mother.

Ken said he would still marry Pauline if she'll have him. Pauline says she doesn't want to marry either of them.

"It was their motorbikes that really attracted me."

Pre-Dawn Swim Fatal To Girl, 19

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 19-year-old girl drowned during a pre-dawn swim in the Washington Channel Sunday.

John J. Dolfis, 28, told police that Frances A. Hopkins, 19, disappeared while swimming in the inlet at the confluence of the Potomac and Anacostia rivers. Harbor police found the body after several hours of dragging.

Police said Dolfis gave this account: The two were in his car parked near the channel at about 3:30 a. m., when Miss Hopkins decided to go swimming although he told her the water was too dirty. The girl climbed a sea wall, entered the water, swam toward the middle of the channel, and cried "Johnny, I can't make it."

Dolfis, unable to swim, said he ran for help, but Miss Hopkins had disappeared when he returned.

Austerity Over Beauty

TAIPEI (UPI) — An official government source said Sunday Nationalist China's policy of austerity explains why local beauty queens are not permitted to enter the Miss Universe contest. "It would not be fitting to our preparations for recovering the China mainland from the Communists," he said.

Woman's Leap From Bridge Ruled Suicide

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — The death of a Charles Town, W. Va., woman who leaped 65 feet into the Potomac River from a bridge, has been ruled a suicide.

Dr. E. W. Ditto, acting medical examiner for Washington County, said Carrie Stoubs Roderick, 56, took her own life by jumping from the bridge Saturday at the Maryland-West Virginia line near Shepherdstown, W. Va.

Members of her family told authorities she had been despondent because of illness.

U. S. farm work accidents claim about 3,500 lives each year, more than any other major industry.

W. Va. Poultry Session Opens On Wednesday

Convention Set At Moorefield

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — A beauty pageant and the crowning of the poultry queen and king will climax the first day's program at the 17th annual West Virginia Poultry Convention opening here Wednesday.

Opening feature will be the annual business meeting of the West Virginia Poultry Association Wednesday afternoon. The convention will continue through Friday.

Some of the nation's foremost poultry industry leaders have been obtained for the educational program, according to H. M. Hyre, associate poultry husbandman at West Virginia University. Speakers scheduled for the second day of the convention include Vic Pringle, general manager of the Rockingham Poultry Marketing Cooperative; Frank Gordy, of the University of Delaware; R. M. Hendrickson, Minneapolis, General Mills, Inc.; John Stiles, of the West Virginia Department of Agriculture, and Dr. D. R. Marble, of Cornell University.

On the last day of the convention, speakers will include William B. Gozzi, Guilford, Conn., President of the Gozzi Breeding Farms, Inc.; G. T. Klein, former extension poultryman at the University of Massachusetts; Ralph Zebarth, Kansas City, Mo., of the Gordon-Johnson Company; Dr. Homer Patrick, head of the Poultry Husbandry Department; T. R. Hash, extension poultryman, and Paul Nesselrood, assistant agriculture economist, all of West Virginia University.

The poultry barbecue at 4:15 p. m. on July 31 will follow the educational program. "This promises to be an outstanding convention," Mr. Hyre declared, "and the Poultry Association and the people of Moorefield extend a cordial invitation to attend to all those interested in the production of poultry and poultry products."

Carrie Keesecker, Barton, and Gladys Ross, Barton, are medical patients in Miners Hospital.

Birth Announced

FROSTBURG — Mr. and Mrs. Everett Knott, Lonaconing, announce the birth of a daughter yesterday in Miners Hospital here.

SPEAKER—Dr. Morris Fishbein, internationally known writer and speaker on medicine and hospitals, will give the principal talk at a free community dinner Tuesday, August 6, at 6:30 p. m. (DST) in Berkeley Springs High School gymnasium. The dinner has been organized in connection with the Morgan County War Memorial Hospital campaign to raise $150,000 for enlargement and modernization of the hospital there.

Federal Funds Get Beall High New Equipment

FROSTBURG — Beall High School is applying for guidance and science equipment which are being made available by Federal funds, according to Dr. Wayne W. Hill, principal.

The State of Maryland has applied for Federal aid under the National Defense Education Act of 1958. The Allegany County Board of Education also is co-operating in the project.

This program, entirely voluntary upon the part of all states and schools, is providing the materials on a matching basis between the Federal government and the state.

Beall High School is receiving materials listed under "guidance counseling and testing" and science materials under the heading of "strengthening science, mathematics and modern foreign language instruction."

Victor Granada Gets Citizenship

PIEDMONT — Victor Granada, 89 East Hampshire Street, was granted United States citizenship by the Circuit Court recently in Fairmont.

A native of Paraguay, South America, Mr. Granada has been a resident of this community for the past three years. He is employed as a research chemist at West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company in Luke.

Mr. Granada plans to leave here the last of August for a visit to Paraguay. During his absence his wife will stay with home folks in Wisconsin.

Miss W. Va. Title Goes To Nitro Girl

By CARLO J. SALZANO
United Press International

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia's entrant in the Miss America Beauty Pageant in September will be Janet Marie Hill of Nitro who was selected Saturday night as Miss West Virginia of 1959.

The blue-eyed brunette, who was first runnerup in the state contest last year, won the vote of the judges not only with her looks but with an excellent performance of the trial scene from "Joan of Arc."

Gov. Cecil H. Underwood who placed the rhinestone crown on the head of the 22-year-old Cardie stenographer thought Miss Hill "has a great deal of natural beauty" and that "she will do well in the national contest" in Atlantic City, N. J., over Labor Day weekend.

Sandy Rardon of Parkersburg was selected first runnerup. Kathryn Pickett of Beckley was named second runnerup and Sarita Matney of Baileysville, Wyoming County, won honors as most talented non-finalist.

The five-foot 5½-inch winner, one of 11 children of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Hill of Nitro, said she hopes to use the $750 scholarship she won as one of her prizes to study drama at West Virginia University or the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York.

In answer to one of two questions put to each of the five finalists, Miss Hill said she "would like a happy family and one in which members get along well with each other."

Janet's idea of an eligible bachelor is one who "has good personality, is gentle, generous and can be depended upon." Vernon LeMaster, 22, East Bank, apparently has all those qualifications because Miss Hill said that although they are not officially engaged, they hope to marry next summer.

W. Va. Poultry Session Opens On Wednesday

Convention Set At Moorefield

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — A beauty pageant and the crowning of the poultry queen and king will climax the first day's program at the 17th annual West Virginia Poultry Convention opening here Wednesday.

Opening feature will be the annual business meeting of the West Virginia Poultry Association Wednesday afternoon. The convention will continue through Friday.

Some of the nation's foremost poultry industry leaders have been obtained for the educational program, according to H. M. Hyre, associate poultry husbandman at West Virginia University.

Speakers scheduled for the second day of the convention include Vic Pringle, general manager of the Rockingham Poultry Marketing Cooperative; Frank Gordy, of the University of Delaware; R. M. Hendrickson, Minneapolis, General Mills, Inc.; John Stiles, of the West Virginia Department of Agriculture, and Dr. D. R. Marble, of Cornell University.

On the last day of the convention, speakers will include William B. Gozzi, Guilford, Conn., President of the Gozzi Breeding Farms, Inc.; G. T. Klein, former extension poultryman at the University of Massachusetts; Ralph Zebarth, Kansas City, Mo., of the Gordon-Johnson Company; Dr. Homer Patrick, head of the Poultry Husbandry Department; T. R. Hash, extension poultryman, and Paul Nesselroed, assistant agriculture economist, all of West Virginia University.

The poultry barbecue at 4:15 p. m. on July 31 will follow the educational program. "This promises to be an outstanding convention," Mr. Hyre declared, "and the Poultry Association and the people of Moorefield extend a cordial invitation to attend to all those interested in the production of poultry and poultry products."

Miss W. Va. Title Goes To Nitro Girl

By CARLO J. SALZANO United Press International

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia's entrant in the Miss America Beauty Pageant in September will be Janet Marie Hill of Nitro who was selected Saturday night as Miss West Virginia of 1959.

The blue-eyed brunette, who was first runnerup in the state contest last year, won the vote of the judges not only with her looks but with an excellent performance of the trial scene from "Joan of Arc."

Gov. Cecil H. Underwood who placed the rhinestone crown on the head of the 22-year-old Cardie stenographer thought Miss Hill "has a great deal of natural beauty" and that "she will do well in the national contest" in Atlantic City, N. J., over Labor Day weekend.

Sandy Rardon of Parkersburg was selected first runnerup. Kathryn Pickett of Beckley was named second runnerup and Sarita Matney of Baileysville, Wyoming County, won honors as most talented non-finalist.

The five-foot 5½-inch winner, one of 11 children of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Hill of Nitro, said she hopes to use the $750 scholarship she won as one of her prizes to study drama at West Virginia University or the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York.

In answer to one of two questions put to each of the five finalists, Miss Hill said she "would like a happy family and one in which members get along well with each other."

Janet's idea of an eligible bachelor is one who "has good personality, is gentle, generous and can be depended upon." Vernon LeMaster, 22, East Bank, apparently has all those qualifications because Miss Hill said that although they are not officially engaged, they hope to marry next summer.

19-Year-Old Given 10 Years In Rape Case

ROMNEY — A 19-year-old Moorefield youth was sentenced Thursday by Judge H. Gus Muntzing in Hampshire County Circuit Court, Romney, to ten years in the West Virginia State Penitentiary.

An all-male jury had found John Neff, the defendant, guilty of raping a 14-year-old Hampshire County girl on the night of Memorial Day.

A motion for a new trial was dropped by Neff's attorneys, State Sen. Ralph J. Bean and James E. Ansel of Moorefield, and William H. Ansel of Springfield.

Neff is out on bond which will allow his attorneys 15 days in which to file an appeal with the West Virginia Supreme Court.

Vicar Begins His Vacation

LONACONING — Rev. Leslee E. Schwindt, vicar at St. Peter's Episcopal Church, will begin vacation July 30. He will be away two Sundays, August 2 and 9, and Mrs. Katie Schwindt, his mother, will be at the Rectory.

Ted Cope, lay reader from St. John's Church, Frostburg, will read morning prayer and the sermon at the services August 2 and 9 at 10 a. m.

"The Book of Remembrance" of St. Peter's Church is on display. Gifts and memorials have been entered in the book, bound in red leather, in Spencerian writing by Mrs. Samuel A. Bean of Lonaconing.

There will be Holy Communion on Wednesday at 9:30 a. m. and at 10 a. m. the cleaning of the church by the Women of St. Peter's will be accomplished.

School Board Restricts Sale Of Pop, Candy

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va. (UPI)—The Marshall county board of education has clamped down on the sale of soft drinks, candy, birthday parties and the sale of magazines during school hours.

A resolution adopted by the board prohibiting such activities during regular school hours said it was the result of a survey on the "wise use of teacher time."

The ban also applies to sports activities exclusive of physical education and commercial movies. It also limited to not more than two per semester the use of outside-paid entertainments for student bodies.

Deadline Arrives For Scotch Picnic

LONACONING — Today is the last day that Robert Hadley will take reservations for Lonaconing area residents interested in traveling by bus to the Scotch Picnic, which will be held at Kenwood Park near Pittsburgh, Pa., on Saturday.

Explorer Scouts are planning to attend. Those interested in bus reservations should contact Mr. Hadley today at HO 3-2802 or HO 3-3331.

Cub Scouts Receive Awards

LONACONING — Cub Scouts, Pack No. 26, took a "Summer Safari" Thursday from 3 p. m. to 9 p. m. at the Celanese pool.

Scouts, Den Mothers and parents had the outing of swimming, picnic supper, and sharing Dallas Ours' birthday cake and ice cream.

Achievement awards at the Scout gathering were Bear badges to Andy Burt and Eddie McPartland; gold and silver arrow points to Gary Gloan; Lion badge to Bobby Goodwin and gold arrow point to Jimmy Steele.

A fresh corn on the cob roast will be held at Dans Mountain Recreation Area, for the Cub Scouts next meeting.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:
A 6 ♥ 8 7 4 3 ♦ Q J 10 6 5 ♣ K 4
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦	2 ♥
3 ♦	Pass	?	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. The cue bid will serve a double purpose. It will enable partner to stop at three no trump if that is the limit of his ambitions, or it may induce him to try for slam if his hand is so suited. You will be pleased to cooperate inasmuch as you have the equivalent of an opening bid now that the king of clubs has been promoted.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
A J 6 4 ♦ Q 10 9 6 4 ♣ A K 9 5 3
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1 ♦ Pass
Pass Pass 1 ♦ Pass
What is your response?

A.—Three clubs. This hand offers distinct slam possibilities dependent on partner's holding in spades. The jump shift therefore, is clearly indicated. This is the strongest possible passed hand partner could expect and surely you will settle for no less than game in diamonds.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
A A J ♥ Q 4 ♦ Q J 8 6 3 ♣ Q 9 7 5
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♣ Pass 1 ♦ 2 ♥
2 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Four clubs. A mere return to three clubs would be grossly inadequate. Partner has shown a hand of reasonably good proportions and your hand has the strength of an opening bid.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
A J 10 7 3 ♥ 6 2 ♦ Q 8 3 ♣ K 10 9 2
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1 ♦ 1 NT.
Pass Pass Double Pass
What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. This is a rather light holding with which to leave the double in, but we can't be sure which suit to bid and even if East should make his contract it wouldn't be game.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
A 6 5 ♥ K Q J 6 3 ♦ A 9 8 2 ♣ A Q
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♥ 1 ♠ Pass Pass
Double Pass 2 NT. Pass
What do you bid now?

A.—Three diamonds. Your hand is slightly unbalanced, and you should make some effort to play at a suit contract. If partner takes you back to three hearts, bid four. If his call is three no trump, pass.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
A 9 10 4 ♦ K Q J 10 8 6 2 ♣ K 6 4 3
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 NT. Pass
2 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. No thought should be given to bidding three diamonds. Partner has indicated a probable six card suit since he didn't like no trump and failed to show another suit on his rebid. Furthermore, he might easily have a singleton diamond.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
A Q 9 7 3 ♥ K 10 5 ♣ A K J 10 8 2
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♥ Pass
3 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ Pass
5 ♠ Pass 5 ♦ Double
What do you bid now?

A.—Seven spades. This should be a pretty safe investment. East's double of five diamonds indicates that little of partner's values are in that suit. The spades are solid and either your heart holding solidifies partner's or your clubs can be set up for discards.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
A K 9 6 5 ♥ Q J 10 9 3 ♦ Q 4 3
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♣ Pass 1 ♦ Pass
2 ♠ Double Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. If partner had wanted to hear from you he would have doubled one club. This is strictly a business double and you have no reason to run.

Nuclear War Over Berlin?

If the American people realized the seriousness of the international crisis, they might lose a great deal of sleep. The President's views have been outlined for news release "in considerable detail by a high authority."

He is "unrelentingly concerned" over Russia's pressure on West Berlin. Mr. Eisenhower has been forced to the conclusion that Russia is determined to absorb West Berlin and its 2.3 million citizens into the Communist orbit. He is equally determined to resist this Communist grab. But how?

If the Russians persist, the President will be forced to decide whether to use nuclear weapons in defense of West Berlin.

The statement, attributed to him, carefully avoids saying what his decision would be. But other parts of the statement warrant the conclusion that if the Russians press hard enough, nothing short of the use of nuclear weapons could keep them from absorbing West Berlin.

This time an airlift is out of the question. It is not hard to understand why the President is having trouble sleeping these nights.

The use of tactical nuclear weapons in defense of West Berlin is clearly indicated, though only as a last resort. It does not imply strategic nuclear bombing of Russia itself. Hence it would not necessarily provoke Russian nuclear attacks on American cities.

That is, if fighting between the East and the West in Germany could be confined to the category of a "small" war.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky
The Course Of Empire

Soviet Russia pursues the course of empire differently from the great empire builders of the past. The Romans, for instance, sent their legions to conquer countries; the Russians do not conquer, they subdue. Napoleon, when he took over lands, reorganized them, placed new rulers over them, established dynasties; the Russians operate through a universal political party, always utilizing natives to establish an indigenous Soviet government and to execute its orders. Hitler built an economic-military empire of great power and wealth but never permitted himself time to consolidate his gains; the Russians utilize all the propagandistic devices available to gain time to achieve such a consolidation.

Of these devices, the most clever is the utilization of intellectual confusion throughout the world. While lesser groups appeal to what in this country are called the grass roots, the Russians in every country devote themselves most assiduously to the leadership groups. Native Communist parties work among the minority elements in this country, such elements as Negroes, Jews, pacifists, etc. But the Russians, as Russians, only meet the rich and the powerful. Well prepared arrangements are made to meet such great and important personalities. But even greater effort is set forth to convince all the intellectual elements of every country that Soviet Russia is superior to all other countries.

The psychological effect of this brilliantly planned effort is already visible in the United States. It is partly due to the previous general down-grading of Russia. For years, Americans were told that they possessed something called "know-how" which made them a superior race. Nobody else possessed this quality. Then came Sputnik and it was suddenly discovered that Soviet Russia also possessed "know-how." The effect was startling to those who were so ignorant of history as to have forgotten that for at least 1,000 years, Russia was a rising power in Europe. It was the same mentality that underestimated Japan before World War II and that failed to recognize that much of our "know-how" originated in Germany.

This does not, in any manner, lessen the significance of the United States or question our brilliant achievements over as short a period as 170 years of national existence. It simply is a recognition of facts and when one recognizes facts, there are fewer surprises. Our tourists who go to Moscow and discover a large building are shocked into forgetting that in New York or Pittsburgh or Chicago such buildings crowd each other on the skyline. They discover a university in Moscow, where they expected only ignorant moujiks, and they forget that in a city like New York there are about 60 institutions of higher learning. Nobody makes a fuss about that. It is expected of us.

Empire builders are always attractive and astonishing. Given time and perspective, and Hitler's idiosyncrasies will play less a part in the historic description of him than his startling achievements of making it possible for a country like Germany to fight on multiple fronts for six years. Even his death might make the last act of an opera!

The moral question of empire is too often overlooked altogether. Soviet Russia has expanded, partly by the accident of war but principally by intrigue, assassination, mob bloodshed, but always by fictitious propaganda. All one has to read is the huge volume of falsehoods that Soviet Russia and her satellites let loose about the United States.

For instance, we are not supposed to enjoy freedom of the press. Why? Because our press is commercial and monopolistic. Soviet Russia's press is free. Why? Because the entire press is owned by the government. In the United States, such pro-Russian publications as "The Worker," the "National Guardian," "Masses and Mainstream," "The Nation" are published without any interference. Are there similar publications in Soviet Russia? No! Such publications could not get paper, ink or workers. Yet, we do not have a free press and they do! This is part of their propaganda of down-grading the United States and as astonishing as it may seem, it works in many parts of the world.

The Russian techniques of empire-building are new, brilliant and competent. They are also immoral. Against their efforts, ours have been very successful because our officials are responsible to public opinion and our people would not relish Russian methods when practiced by Americans.

Ike Must Prove He Means Business On Berlin

By Joseph Alsop

A story about Dwight D. Eisenhower, that is highly, even grimly relevant at the moment, is told at the State Department. It concerns a meeting between the President and the Ambassador to Germany, David K. E. Bruce, that took place some months ago.

In that early stage of the Berlin crisis, long before Geneva, Bruce had come home for policy talks. He was not, perhaps, quite sure what the basic American policy really was.

At any rate, Bruce was not content to let the matter rest, when the President had offered assurances like his famous press conference statement that he "would not give an inch" at Berlin. He bluntly reminded his chief that there was only one way to defend the hopelessly vulnerable Berlin position — by being willing to fight a nuclear war for Berlin.

Bruce added that he thought there would be no war, if the President made his iron resolution plain to the Kremlin. But he pointed out that many means were available to the Kremlin, for testing and detecting any trace of doubt or hesitation in the President's apparent resolution. Hence, he concluded, the root and essence of the whole problem was the question, whether the President truly preferred the risk of a big war to a surrender.

The President replied that he understood the nature of the choice and had reflected on it long and prayerfully. Quite aside from America's moral obligation to the two million and a half Berliners, he went on, he had decided that a surrender at Berlin would be a disastrous error, for the purely practical reason that it would only prepare the demand for another surrender somewhere else. Therefore, the President said grimly, he would indeed fight a nuclear war for Berlin if driven to it.

That was long ago. But the President's reported statement to Bruce was echoed in large measure by his remarks to the White House reporters last week, about the sleepless nights he had experienced because of the thought of using nuclear weapons to defend Berlin. In fact one must assume (and it is a sobering assumption) that the President's honest intention is exactly what he says it is — not to give a significant inch and to fight rather than surrender if he has to do so.

As the President is a man who relies so heavily on his staff officers, these men, and chiefly Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, will define the phrase "not give an inch." Theoretically, their definition could quite easily turn out to be a concealed surrender. But on the gut-issue, so far as one can judge, Herter is just as firm as John Foster Dulles ever was.

In these circumstances, it is bewildering that almost nothing has been done, even today, to give tangible expression to the President's resolution. With very little plain speaking about the choice that may lie ahead, President Eisenhower could rally the country behind him in a way no one could mistake. By so doing, he would strengthen Secretary Herter's hand immeasurably.

Instead, while making his firm statement for the record, the

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

What to do with the accumulating stocks of radioactive waste is becoming a major problem of the United States and other countries operating atomic programs.

Most high-level wastes are being stored in underground tanks in the United States, with only the low-level, or relatively harmless kinds of waste being disposed of in drums dumped into the seas.

However, the federal government is concerned with the waste disposal efforts of other countries. There is no international agreement or regulations on the matter. And United States officials agree there is little to be gained by America taking expensive precautions if the seas and the air are to be contaminated by Russia and other more "economy minded" countries.

When Democratic National Committee Chairman Paul Butler accused his party leadership in Congress of being "too conservative" he stirred up more of a hornets' nest than he bargained for.

Senate Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn, the so-called "Texas twins," promptly replied that Butler could talk all he wanted to but that the congressional group would write the record on which the party would seek the presidency next year.

Innumerable Democrats called for Butler to resign. This is nothing new, his resignation has been demanded many times before. In fact, Butler himself, possessing a fine wit, has long indicated he rises every morning wondering whether he's still chairman of the Democratic party or just another member.

Summer Fun, And Sun And Water Hazards

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Summer is the water sport season. In a northern city, such as Chicago, the 20 miles of shoreline are crowded with swimmers, bathers, and sun worshipers. There are thousands of boats in the water, varying from graceful sailboats to noisy, bumpy outboard boats. It is surprising that so few people get hurt or drown.

The physician sees the casualties that never make the headlines. The ears, nose, and eyes are likely to take a beating from diving or swimming under the surface. Water seldom gets into the sinuses or the internal ear, but when it does, infection is likely to occur. Those with sinus or ear disorders should keep the head out of water and avoid diving.

Irritation of the eyes usually is confined to the lids and occurs more often after spending long hours in the water or swimming in pools containing too much acid or chlorine. Ringworm thrives on moisture — sitting dripping wet on the edge of the pool, a wet deck, or on the beach is an ideal way to encourage athlete's foot or fungal infections of the outer ear canal.

The hot sun not only burns but may cause heat stroke or prostration. The old tucker may suffer. A report appeared in the Rhode Island medical journal on two otherwise healthy young men who developed heart attacks after prolonged exposure to the sun. In both instances the attack took place without physical exertion.

Victims of mild or moderate sunburn usually suffer in silence or reply upon soothing ointments containing petrolatum and an antihistaminic or a corticosteroid. Those with more severe burns are a sorry sight, especially when extensive areas of skin are blistered. Pain is intense and hospitalization may be advised should the person develop chills, fever, nausea, and vomiting.

Dr. Van Dellen will send a leaflet on athlete's foot if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

REPLY: These nodules are most likely to occur with the protein-containing, modified insulin. Change to another form of insulin. These bumps last for variable lengths of time and often disappear as the use of insulin continues. I assume you are not referring to hives, an allergic manifestation. ## Contrast Between Ike's, Morton's Private Dinners For Chosen Few

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Interesting fact apropos the President's off-the-record dinner for a few chosen newsmen is that Sen. Thurston Morton of Kentucky, the GOP National Chairman, had a similar dinner with newsmen and got bawled out for it by the White House.

Another interesting fact is that Ike is staging a repeat dinner tonight, with the following chosen few among the guests: John O'Brien, Philadelphia Inquirer; Roscoe Drummond, Columnist; William Stringer, Christian Science Monitor; Bob Roth, Philadelphia Bulletin; and Arthur Krock, New York Times.

At the first dinner, the chosen few repaired immediately afterward to the Statler Hotel, where they rented a room and prepared a comprehensive memo on everything Ike said. Then they decided what could and should be printed. A coin was flipped to see whether the story would be released to A.M. or P.M. papers. The P.M.'s won.

This was how Eisenhower leaked at this private dinner for newsmen. Here is how GOP Chairman Morton leaked at his private dinner for which the White House bawled him out:

Morton Leaks

Ike never really took command of the Republican party. "The first surrender was at Morningside Heights," said Morton, referring to Eisenhower's adoption of the Taft program in the fall of 1952. "After that there were a lot of other surrenders." . . . The budget estimates for 1961 are shocking, the GOP National Chairman told dinner guests. The budget figure, he said, will be "pretty close" to $82 billion, and he's terribly worried over the prospect of the GOP going into the 1960 election with an unbalanced budget. . . . Senator Morton is afraid Ike is going to get "veto happy" and slap Congress with so many vetoes that he'll give the impression of a "negative administration." (This is what the Senate liberals have been telling Lyndon Johnson — namely that Eisenhower can use his veto too often.) . . . Ike refers to the veto as his "veto pistol," according to Morton.

Vice President Nixon is pretty sure to get the GOP nomination in 1960, Morton said. Nixon has about 80 per cent of the GOP pros behind him. They are the boys who make up the national convention and they're plugging for Nixon. Rockefeller doesn't have much chance to overtake him unless Nixon makes a very poor showing in the polls or in the primaries. . . . Morton further observed that Nelson Rockefeller won't go for the nomination unless he is convinced Nixon can't win. (Rockefeller's friends don't agree.) Rockefeller won't quit the Governorship of New York to accept a Vice Presidential nomination in any event. . . . When Nelson Rockefeller came to Washington to speak at the GOP Capitol Hill Club he had a private talk with Morton, at which Morton assured him he would get the same breaks as Nixon even though not a candidate. He'll be informed of all key decisions before they are announced. . . . Morton claimed Rockefeller's speech before the Capitol Hill Republican Club was not supposed to be a campaign kickoff. "Rockefeller was embarrassed by the whole thing," said Morton, "but once the buildup started he couldn't back out."

Ike Gets Chilled

The one Republican leader who gets on Ike's nerves is Congressman Dick Simpson of Pennsylvania. "When he's in the room," confided the GOP chairman, "you can feel the chill." . . . Simpson is a Pennsylvania high tariff conservative who has fought Ike on reciprocal trade and is also chairman of the Republican Committee for Re-Electing Congressmen. This makes Ike unhappy. He would be glad to see Simpson relieved of the job. However, following the fight to oust Ex-Speaker Joe Martin from the House, other Republican leaders urged caution on another purge. It would split the party wide open. Morton himself also seemed quite down, on Dick Simpson, claimed only 10 per cent of the money Simpson raised went to support congressional candidates in 1958. The rest was spent on Simpson's top-heavy staff.

Ike is entirely happy with the other GOP leaders, says Morton, in fact, much happier than with Joe Martin of Massachusetts and Sen. Bill Knowland of California. The President now enjoys his Tuesday meetings with GOP leaders, likes to work with Charley Halleck of Indiana, who replaced Martin, and Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois who replaced Knowland. Once a decision is reached Ike finds both will support it. This, he found, was not true of Knowland. . . . The Republicans can't win with old men.

Morton confided that GOP candidates in 1960 must be young, forceful, photogenic. In 1958 the average Democrat picked to run against incumbent Republicans was about 42 years old. The average Republicans picked to oust Democrats, were over 60. "We have to get it through our heads," said Morton, "that you can't elect old party hacks just because they have rendered long and faithful service to the party." . . . As a step in this direction, Morton is bringing Ray Bliss, GOP state chairman in Ohio, to Washington as a paid director of organization. In Ohio, Bliss has been selling business firms on the idea of getting junior executives to work for the Republican Party. Most business executives live in wealthy suburban areas which the Republicans carry quite easily. Each executive, therefore, is being asked to "adopt" a ward on the other side of the tracks.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

She worked in a bookshop that had one eye. The current best sellers reposed in dignity in a single small window. The other window belonged to the tailor next door, a dark industrious Syrian who flirted across his pressing machine with the girls in the bookshop.

Her name was Leslie and I will not forget her because she made a career of being unattractive. She had a tall slender figure—if it could be called a figure—and she draped it in pepper-and-salt skirts of serviceable wool, brown ribbed jersey blouses, and flat shoes. The face and lips were thin. The nose had a tiny bulb on the end. The hair appeared to have been raked once, from front to back.

Leslie was an excellent librarian. She had a B. Sc. and a real feeling for good books. She lived with her mother in three rooms over the basement library. When her mother died, she lived alone, a haughty, frosty woman of 35 who secretly despised herself. She appeared to know everything about books, and nothing about anything else.

Paddy stopped in one day to get an out-of-print volume. I do not pretend to understand the degree of spirituality, or even the physical chemistry, which attracts people, but Paddy admired Leslie at once. This was doubly strange because Paddy, as a writer, had a reputation as a lady killer. He knew them all. Too well.

He was a second-generation Irishman with carrot-colored hair and skin pocked by an old illness. He wrote with the wild poetry of the true Irish, and his stuff sold well. He never cared for golf or tennis or even movies. Just women, and I cannot fault him for that.

In the first week, he stopped in at the bookshop twice. In the second week, he was there every day. Leslie maintained her reserve and it required a solid unremitting campaign on Paddy's part just to get her out to lunch. The more she chilled, the warmer he felt.

At the end of a month, she had no life of her own. Paddy took her to show openings, to closings, to night clubs, to bottle clubs. She realized that she had been living in the midst of a life she had never seen. The he left for the Coast and that was that.

Leslie returned to her old duties with her old reserve. A letter came from Paddy. Only a wild Irishman could have written it. "Come," it said, "to Lake Tahoe in California. Get there on Thursday on the 10 a. m. train. I will marry you at once and I'm putting this in writing. Just wait at the station."

The woman read and reread it and folded it and unfolded it. She did something unusual. Leslie confided in the two other women in the shop. One said the man was crazy. The other said to start packing. Few women were ever as panicky as Leslie. The man couldn't possibly mean what he wrote—drunk probably—and yet, maybe, perhaps, who knows?

At the last minute, her pride shredded, Leslie got on the train. For three days and two nights, she worried. Why didn't he have a return address on the envelope? Why couldn't they have discussed all this on the phone? Why so sudden? Why so mysterious? Leslie was something the train never aspired to be—a wreck.

It was a sunny morning when she alighted. She sat her bags down and looked expectantly for Paddy. She even forced a little expectant smile. There was no Paddy. She walked down the station platform telling herself aloud that she must not cry. She must maintain her dignity.

A half hour later, she walked around behind the station. Paddy was there, sitting in a car. "I thought you turned me down," he said. She hurried back to get her bags, and then she cried. Paddy took her off, down bright palm-edged roads. He talked of his work in motion pictures.

They were married the next day. Leslie couldn't believe it. She was a happy bride. He not only told her morning noon and night that she was beautiful but, in time, he made her believe it. For two years and four months, her feet never touched the floor. He adored her and begged for the stability he knew she could give him.

He wrote his seventh book, based on his true romance, and the publishers turned it down. It lacked authenticity. It sounded silly. Paddy couldn't accept defeat. He shot himself. Leslie was a model of decorum at the funeral. There wasn't a tear. When it was over, she wrote a note to the publishers and swallowed sleeping pills.

"You said the book lacked authenticity," she wrote. "Here it is."

Nuclear War Over Berlin?

If the American people realized the seriousness of the international crisis, they might lose a great deal of sleep. The President's views have been outlined for news release "in considerable detail by a high authority."

He is "unrelentingly concerned" over Russia's pressure on West Berlin. Mr. Eisenhower has been forced to the conclusion that Russia is determined to absorb West Berlin and its 2.3 million citizens into the Communist orbit. He is equally determined to resist this Communist grab. But how?

If the Russians persist, the President will be forced to decide whether to use nuclear weapons in defense of West Berlin.

The statement, attributed to him, carefully avoids saying what his decision would be. But other parts of the statement warrant the conclusion that if the Russians press hard enough, nothing short of the use of nuclear weapons could keep them from absorbing West Berlin.

This time an airlift is out of the question. It is not hard to understand why the President is having trouble sleeping these nights.

The use of tactical nuclear weapons in defense of West Berlin is clearly indicated, though only as a last resort. It does not imply strategic nuclear bombing of Russia itself. Hence it would not necessarily provoke Russian nuclear attacks on American cities.

That is, if fighting between the East and the West in Germany could be confined to the category of a "small" war.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Course Of Empire

Soviet Russia pursues the course of empire differently from the great empire builders of the past. The Romans, for instance, sent their legions to conquer countries; the Russians do not conquer, they subdue. Napoleon, when he took over lands, reorganized them, placed new rulers over them, established dynasties; the Russians operate through a universal political party, always utilizing natives to establish an indigenous Soviet government and to execute its orders. Hitler built an economic-military empire of great power and wealth but never permitted himself time to consolidate his gains; the Russians utilize all the propagandistic devices available to gain time to achieve such a consolidation.

Of these devices, the most clever is the utilization of intellectual confusion throughout the world. While lesser groups appeal to what in this country are called the grass roots, the Russians in every country devote themselves most assiduously to the leadership groups. Native Communist parties work among the minority elements in this country, such elements as Negroes, Jews, pacifists, etc. But the Russians, as Russians, only meet the rich and the powerful. Well prepared arrangements are made to meet such great and important personalities. But even greater effort is set forth to convince all the intellectual elements of every country that Soviet Russia is superior to all other countries.

The psychological effect of this brilliantly planned effort is already visible in the United States. It is partly due to the previous general down-grading of Russia. For years, Americans were told that they possessed something called "know-how" which made them a superior race. Nobody else possessed this quality. Then came Sputnik and it was suddenly discovered that Soviet Russia also possessed "know-how." The effect was startling to those who were so ignorant of history as to have forgotten that for at least 1,000 years, Russia was a rising power in Europe. It was the same mentality that underestimated Japan before World War II and that failed to recognize that much of our "know-how" originated in Germany.

This does not, in any manner, lessen the significance of the United States or question our brilliant achievements over as short a period as 170 years of national existence. It simply is a recognition of facts and when one recognizes facts, there are fewer surprises. Our tourists who go to Moscow and discover a large building are shocked into forgetting that in New York or Pittsburgh or Chicago such buildings crowd each other on the skyline. They discover a university in Moscow, where they expected only ignorant moujiks, and they forget that in a city like New York there are about 60 institutions of higher learning. Nobody makes a fuss about that. It is expected of us.

Empire builders are always attractive and astonishing. Given time and perspective, and Hitler's idiosyncrasies will play less a part in the historic description of him than his startling achievements of making it possible for a country like Germany to fight on multiple fronts for six years. Even his death might make the last act of an opera!

The moral question of empire is too often overlooked altogether. Soviet Russia has expanded, partly by the accident of war but principally by intrigue, assassination, mob bloodshed, but always by fictitious propaganda. All one has to read is the huge volume of falsehoods that Soviet Russia and her satellites let loose about the United States.

For instance, we are not supposed to enjoy freedom of the press. Why? Because our press is commercial and monopolistic. Soviet Russia's press is free. Why? Because the entire press is owned by the government. In the United States, such pro-Russian publications as "The Worker," the "National Guardian," "Masses and Mainstream," "The Nation" are published without any interference. Are there similar publications in Soviet Russia? No! Such publications could not get paper, ink or workers. Yet, we do not have a free press and they do! This is part of their propaganda of down-grading the United States and as astonishing as it may seem, it works in many parts of the world.

The Russian techniques, of empire-building are new, brilliant and competent. They are also immoral. Against their efforts, ours have not been very successful because our officials are responsible to public opinion and our people would not relish Russian methods when practiced by Americans.

'Just Call It Bucks For Ballots, Pal'

Ike Must Prove He Means Business On Berlin

By Joseph Alsop

A story about Dwight D. Eisenhower, that is highly, even grimly relevant at the moment, is told at the State Department. It concerns a meeting between the President and the Ambassador to Germany, David K. E. Bruce, that took place some months ago.

In that early stage of the Berlin crisis, long before Geneva, Bruce had come home for policy talks. He was not perhaps, quite sure what the basic American policy really was.

At any rate, Bruce was not content to let the matter rest, when the President had offered assurances like his famous press conference statement that he "would not give an inch" at Berlin. He bluntly reminded his chief that there was only one way to defend the hopelessly vulnerable Berlin position — by being willing to fight a nuclear war for Berlin.

Bruce added that he thought there would be no war, if the President made his iron resolution plain to the Kremlin. But he pointed out that many means were available to the Kremlin, for testing and detecting any trace of doubt or hesitation in the President's apparent resolution. Hence, he concluded, the root and essence of the whole problem was the question, whether the President truly preferred the risk of a big war to a surrender.

The President replied that he understood the nature of the choice and had reflected on it long and prayerfully. Quite aside from America's moral obligation to the two million and a half Berliners, he went on, he had decided that a surrender at Berlin would be a disastrous error, for the purely practical reason that it would only prepare the demand for another surrender somewhere else. Therefore, the President said grimly, he would indeed fight a nuclear war for Berlin if driven to it.

That was long ago. But the President's reported statement to Bruce was echoed in large measure by his remarks to the White House reporters last week, about the sleepless nights he had experienced because of the thought of using nuclear weapons to defend Berlin. In fact one must assume (and it is a sobering assumption) that the President's honest intention is exactly what he says it is — not to give a significant inch and to fight rather than surrender if he has to do so.

As the President is a man who relies so heavily on his staff officers, these men, and chiefly Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, will define the phrase "not give an inch." Theoretically, their definition could quite easily turn out to be a concealed surrender. But on the gut-issue, so far as one can judge, Herter is just as firm as John Foster Dulles ever was.

In these circumstances, it is bewildering that almost nothing has been done, even today, to give tangible expression to the President's resolution. With very little plain speaking about the choice that may lie ahead, President Eisenhower could rally the country behind him in a way no one could mistake. By so doing, he would strengthen Secretary Herter's hand immeasurably.

Instead, while making his firm statement for the record, the President has allowed the country to fall into a state of uncorseted complacency about the Berlin crisis. Therefore Khrushchev tells all and sundry that the "workers" of America will not support the President's announced policy.

In the military sphere, too, the President has been persuaded with much difficulty by Secretary Herter to order what are officially called "quite precautions" easily noticeable by the Soviet intelligence. But he has steadfastly refused to order the major measures that would convince the Kremlin he means business.

It is very plain from the way Khrushchev has been speaking and acting that he does not think the President means business. That error, if it is an error, can needlessly lead on to a world tragedy. For just that reason, if the President truly means business, it is his duty to show it in the most decisive and unarguable way.

Why has he not done so? First of all, when the foregoing arguments have been outlined to him, he has always replied that "everyone knows" what his policy is, because he has explained his policy at press conference after press conference. It has never occurred to Eisenhower, apparently, that the Kremlin is only impressed by acts, and never by words.

Then too, there is the pull of the curious Eisenhower political technique, which has been described by Arthur Schlesinger Jr., "whenever clear cut issues threaten to burst into flame, he douses them with torrents of platitudes and piety." The description may be cruel, but the technique is real, and it has been pretty effective so far in American domestic policies. The only trouble is that it has now become a very dangerous technique indeed.

Senate Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn, the so-called "Texas twins," promptly replied that Butler could talk all he wanted to but that the congressional group would write the record on which the party would seek the presidency next year.

Innumerable Democrats called for Butler to resign. This is nothing new, his resignation has been demanded many times before. In fact, Butler himself, possessing a fine wit, has long indicated he rises every morning wondering whether he's still chairman of the Democratic party or just another member.

Contrast Between Ike's, Morton's Private Dinners For Chosen Few

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Interesting fact apropos the President's off-the-record dinner for a few chosen newsmen is that Sen. Thurston Morton of Kentucky, the GOP National Chairman, had a similar dinner with newsmen and got bawled out for it by the White House.

Another interesting fact is that Ike is staging a repeat dinner tonight, with the following chosen few among the guests: John O'Brien, Philadelphia Inquirer; Roscoe Drummond, Columnist; William Stringer, Christian Science Monitor; Bob Roth, Philadelphia Bulletin; and Arthur Krock, New York Times.

At the first dinner, the chosen few repaired immediately afterward to the Statler Hotel, where they rented a room and prepared a comprehensive memo on everything Ike said. Then they decided what could and should be printed. A coin was flipped to see whether the story would be released to A.M. or P.M. papers. The P.M.'s won.

This was how Eisenhower leaked at this private dinner for newsmen. Here is how GOP Chairman Morton leaked at his private dinner for which the White House bawled him out: Morton leaks.

Ike never really took command of the Republican party. "The first surrender was at Morningside Heights," said Morton, referring to Eisenhower's adoption of the Taft program in the fall of 1952. "After that there were a lot of other surrenders."

The budget estimates for 1961 are shocking, the GOP National Chairman told dinner guests. The budget figure, he said, will be "pretty close" to $82 billion, and he's terribly worried over the prospect of the GOP going into the 1960 election with an unbalanced budget. . . . Senator Morton is afraid Ike is going to get "veto happy" and slap Congress with so many vetoes that he'll give the impression of a "negative administration." (This is what the Senate liberals have been telling Lyndon Johnson — namely that Eisenhower can use his veto too often.) . . . Ike refers to the veto as his "veto pistol," according to Morton.

Vice President Nixon is pretty sure to get the GOP nomination in 1960, Morton said. Nixon has about 80 per cent of the GOP pros behind him. They are the boys who make up the national convention and they're plugging for Nixon. Rockefeller doesn't have much chance to overtake him unless Nixon makes a very poor showing in the polls or in the primaries. . . . Morton further observed that Nelson Rockefeller won't go for the nomination unless he is convinced Nixon can't win. (Rockefeller's friends don't agree.) Rockefeller won't quit the Governorship of New York to accept a Vice Presidential nomination in any event. . . . When Nelson Rockefeller came to Washington to speak at the GOP Capitol Hill Club he had a private talk with Morton, at which Morton assured him he would get the same breaks as Nixon even though not a candidate. He'll be informed of all key decisions before they are announced. . . . Morton claimed Rockefeller's speech before the Capitol Hill Republican Club was not supposed to be a campaign kickoff. "Rockefeller was embarrassed by the whole thing," said Morton, "but once the buildup started he couldn't back out."

Ike Gets Chilled
The one Republican leader who gets on Ike's nerves is Congressman Dick Simpson of Pennsylvania. "When he's in the room," confided the GOP chairman, "you can feel the chill." . . . Simpson is a Pennsylvania high tariff conservative who has fought Ike on reciprocal trade and is also chairman of the Republican Committee for Re-Electing Congressmen. This makes Ike unhappy. He would be glad to see Simpson relieved of the job. However, following the fight to oust Ex-Speaker Joe Martin from the House, other Republican leaders urged caution on another purge. It would split the party wide open. Morton himself also seemed quite down on Dick Simpson, claimed only 10 per cent of the money Simpson raised went to support congressional candidates in 1958. The rest was spent on Simpson's top-heavy staff.

Ike is entirely happy with the other GOP leaders, says Morton, in fact, much happier than with Joe Martin of Massachusetts and Sen. Bill Knowland of California. The President now enjoys his Tuesday meetings with GOP leaders, likes to work with Charley Halleck of Indiana, who replaced Martin, and Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois who replaced Knowland. Once a decision is reached Ike finds both will support it. This, he found, was not true of Knowland. . . . The Republicans can't win with old men.

Morton confided that GOP candidates in 1960 must be young, forceful, photogenic. In 1958 the average Democrat picked to run against incumbent Republicans was about 42 years old. The average Republicans picked to oust Democrats, were over 60. "We have to get it through our heads," said Morton, "that you can't elect old party hacks just because they have rendered long and faithful service to the party." . . . As a step in this direction, Morton is bringing Ray Bliss, GOP state chairman in Ohio, to Washington as a paid director of organization. In Ohio, Bliss has been selling business firms on the idea of getting junior executives to work for the Republican Party. Most business executives live in wealthy suburban areas which the Republicans carry quite easily. Each executive, therefore, is being asked to "adopt" a ward on the other side of the tracks.

Summer Fun, And Sun And Water Hazards

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Summer is the water sport season. In a northern city, such as Chicago, the 20 miles of shoreline are crowded with swimmers, bathers, and sun worshipers. There are thousands of boats in the water, varying from graceful sailboats to noisy, bumpy outboard boats. It is surprising that so few people get hurt or drown.

The physician sees the casualties that never make the headlines. The ears, nose, and eyes are likely to take a beating from diving or swimming under the surface. Water seldom gets into the sinuses or the internal ear, but when it does, infection is likely to occur. Those with sinus or ear disorders should keep the head out of water and avoid diving.

Irritation of the eyes usually is confined to the lids and occurs more often after spending long hours in the water or swimming in pools containing too much acid or chlorine. Ringworm thrives on moisture — sitting dripping wet on the edge of the pool, a wet deck, or on the beach is an ideal way to encourage athlete's foot or fungal infections of the outer ear canal.

The hot sun not only burns but may cause heat stroke or prostration. The old ticker may suffer. A report appeared in the Rhode Island medical journal on two otherwise healthy young men who developed heart attacks after prolonged exposure to the sun. In both instances the attack took place without physical exertion.

Victims of mild or moderate sunburn usually suffer in silence or reply upon soothing ointments containing petrolatum and an antihistaminic or a corticosteroid. Those with more severe burns are a sorry sight, especially when extensive areas of skin are blistered. Pain is intense and hospitalization may be advised should the person develop chills, fever, nausea, and vomiting.

Dr. Van Dellen will send a leaflet on athlete's foot if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

SHOT BUMPS

T. Z. writes: Every time I give myself a shot of insulin I get a bump at the site of the injection. Is there any way this could be prevented?

These nodules are most likely to occur with the protein-containing, modified insulin. Change to another form of insulin. These bumps last for variable lengths of time and often disappear as the use of insulin continues. I assume you are not referring to hives, an allergic manifestation. Occasionally swelling stems from injecting the insulin too close to

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Robert Murphy, one of our State Department's most valuable trouble shooters, picked up a neat trick from Winston Churchill.

Trapped in an interminable conference in Algiers some years back, Churchill casually pulled a fresh pair of socks from his pocket, kicked off his shoes, and changed socks. Murphy was very much more intrigued with this performance than with the speaker of the moment, and leaned over to ask Churchill what he was up to. "I find," explained Churchill, "that changing socks in the middle of a tiring day is a great refresher."

Now when Robert Murphy lacks time to shower and effect a complete change of costume, he settles for a fresh pair of socks, too.

Two progressive school youngsters were discussing their domestic problems. "My mother was depressed when I was born," confessed the first little girl. "Why?" asked the other. "Did she want a boy?" "No," answered the first. "She wanted a divorce."

Baltimore's Mit Pappas smokes Chicago Out Of 1st Place

Orioles Break Sox 5-Game Win Skein, 4-0

Ends Birds' Loss String; Early Wynn Cops Opener, 4-1

CHICAGO (UPI)—Milt Pappas dropped the Chicago White Sox from the American League lead Sunday with a five-hit shutout.

The Baltimore Orioles won the nightcap of a twin bill, 4-0, after the Sox took the opener, 4-1.

The nightcap loss snapped a five-game winning streak for Chicago and sent the Sox tumbling from first place for the fifth time this season. They slipped one-half game behind the Cleveland Indians.

Early Wynn hurled a two-hitter for Chicago's victory as the Sox capitalized on only three hits. They took Orioles starter Arnie Portocarrero for three runs on two walks and Al Smith's inside-the-park homer in the fourth, then scored another in the seventh on a single and double. Chicago's only other hits were two wasted singles and a double.

Baltimore jumped to an early lead in the nightcap when Chico Carrasquel led off the first inning with a single, took second on a sacrifice, third on a passed ball and scored on Gene Woodling's single.

The Orioles really got to Sox starter Barry Latman in the sixth, when, with one out, Carrasquel again singled, Al Pilarick was hit by a pitched ball and Gene Woodling followed up with a homerun.

Pappas, the Orioles' winningest pitcher with an 11-5 mark, was in serious trouble only once, in the fifth, when the Sox loaded the bases on two walks and a single. The rally was nipped, however, when Latman grounded into a double play.

Albie Pearson, who doubled with one out in the fourth and was first stranded on second, got the first hit off Wynn and Woodling, who pinch-singled in the ninth, got the other. Baltimore's lone run came in that ninth, on two walks and a sacrifice fly.

The victory gave Wynn a record of 13-6, tying him with Cal McLish of Cleveland for the league lead. It also was Wynn's 26th major league triumph.

The nightcap win ended a six-game Baltimore losing streak.

Pittsburgh Drops Pair To Milwaukee, 4-0, 2-1

Spahn, Buhl Score Wins; Bucs Suffer 6th Straight Loss

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—The Milwaukee Braves, mounting a new pennant drive after a seven-game losing streak dropped them to third place, smacked the Pittsburgh Pirates with a doubleheader sweep Sunday, 4-0 and 2-1, on Warren Spahn's 47th shutout and Milt Pappas' comeback starting triump.

The twin victory before 39,420 fans put the Braves on a four-game win streak, all of them against the Pirates, and left Pittsburgh with a six-game losing streak. Until the Pirates scored a run in the fourth inning of the nightcap, they had gone 30 2-3 innings without crossing the plate and 39 2-3 scoreless frames against the Braves.

Shut Out By Spahn
The Pirates, shut out in the first two games of the series with the Braves, failed to score again in the first game as Spahn stopped them cold on five hits for his fourth shutout of the year.

The National League's left-handed pitching master now is tied for sixth among all-time senior circuit shutout pitchers. Charles (Babe) Adams and Charles (Kid) Nichols also had 47 whitewash jobs.

The 38-year-old southpaw, who broke into the majors in 1942, also chalked up his 259th win, only seven behind Eppa Rixey, the only National League lefthander with more lifetime wins.

Pittsburgh's Bob Friend suffered his 13th loss in the first game, although he yielded only five hits in seven innings. Johnny Logan hit a two-run homer off him in the sixth, but both runs were unearned because third baseman Don Hoak dropped an easy infield fly preceding Logan's 12th homer of the year.

Buhl Cops Seventh
Buhl won his seventh game in 13 decisions in the second contest after making his first start in five weeks due to a sore arm. He allowed five hits for seven innings and then tired. Don McMahon came in for the eighth and ninth and pitched hitless ball to protect the one-run lead.

The Braves scored the winning run off starter and loser Gene Witt in the fourth on a lead-off walk to Billy Bruton, Henry Aaron's single, which Rocky Nelson bobbled in left field, and Joe Adcock's infield out.

Oakland, Frostburg Cash In Little League Playoff Today

18 All-Stars Are Named By Garrett Loop

16 To Represent Host Team Today In 6:30 Contest

Oakland's Little League All-Stars and Frostburg's Little League All-Stars will clash today at 6:30 p.m., at Frostburg's new Little League park, near the National Guard Armory, in the opening game of the district playoffs. Frostburg's will be engaging in the playoffs for the fifth straight year. The Mountain City tossers made their best showing in four years in 1958 when they disposed of Oakland, 8-1. Hancock 4-2 and Williamsport 8-4 and then lost out in the quarter-finals to Hagerstown's American League All-Stars, 4-3. Oakland lost the district playoff opener to Frostburg in 1957 by the score of 4-3.

Eighteen players, including three alternates, have been chosen to represent Oakland's league in the playoffs. Harrison B. Stewart is manager of the Garrett countians with John Palmer as his assistant.

Sixteen eligibles have been selected as the All-Star squad from the six teams in the Frostburg League. William Biggs of the Lions and Bill Groves of the Knights of Columbus will manage the Frostburg team.

The rosters of the teams:

OAKLAND ALL-STARS
Lions Club — Richard Perrine, Richard Friend, Michael Friend, David Layman, K. C. — Gary Trickett, Charles Dabson, James Crenick, James Collette, Moose — Richard Sharpless, David Livengood.
Knights of Columbus — James Harvey, Vic Keller, Robert Lohr, Martin Sharpless, James Switzer.
Alternates — Tom Foley, Jeff Script, James Gibson.

FROSTBURG ALL-STARS

Rochester Club Refuses To Play In Cuba Sunday

Frederick Hosts Cumberland Aug. 1 In Legion Series

Francis Scott Key Post of Frederick will meet Fort Cumberland Post No. 13 at Frederick, Saturday, August 1, for the Western Maryland title in the Maryland American Legion baseball tournament and a berth in the state playoffs.

A doubleheader is billed for Saturday and if a third game is necessary it will be played on Sunday.

Frederick won the right to meet Cumberland, the District I winner, by defeating Thurmont, 4-3, Saturday in the District II title game.

Junction Tops Rockets, 6-3.

Capon Bridge Wins, Trails By Half Game

Springfield's lead was reduced to a half game in the Hampshire County Baseball League yesterday when the Rockets were upset by Junction by the score of 6-3 at Springfield and Capon Bridge's second place team turned back Kirby to the tune of 15-9.

Dale Stickle, who hurled for Romney High in the Potomac Valley Conference this year, stopped the league leaders by scattering seven hits and whiffing eight. Tom Frye started on the mound for Springfield and was charged with the loss. Harold Carl came on in the 7th to finish the game.

Dane McGee of Junction and Joe Corbin of Springfield paced the stickers with two hits each. John McCauley collected two doubles and two singles in Capon Bridge's victory over Kirby. Slaves went the route on the rubber for the winners while Ely and Hott worked on the mound for Kirby, the latter coming in as reliever in the 7th frame.

In another league game, August defeated Slanesville by the score of 6-1.

Six Injured In Weekend Auto Wrecks

Two Accidents Occur In City

Six persons were injured in a series of weekend auto accidents, two of which occurred within the city limits.

Robert Flanigan, 18, of Ridgeley, W. Va., was admitted to Memorial Hospital early yesterday morning with injuries sustained when the car in which he was riding overturned in South End.

The driver of the car, Michael E. Smith, of RD 2, Morgantown, W. Va., who apparently was not hurt, posted $101.45 bond at the city jail after being charged with reckless driving.

Police said Flanigan complained of injuries to his right arm, shoulder and ribs. The accident occurred when the car, apparently traveling at too great a speed, turned over on River Avenue near Potomac Street and slid some distance on its top.

Hamilton Injured

Stanley O. Hamilton, 63, of 1902 Frederick Street, former chairman of the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage Licenses Commissioners, was injured severely about the head and face in a one-car crash late Saturday night at the intersection of North Mechanic Street and the U. S. Route 40 by-pass.

His wife Martha, 62, and her sister, Miss Dorah Louise Downton, 57, of RD 2, Frostburg also were injured. All three were admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital.

Last night Mr. Hamilton was reported in "good" condition, and his wife and sister-in-law were in "satisfactory" condition.

City Police said the accident occurred when Mrs. Hamilton, who was driving, apparently lost control of the car and rammed into a utility pole. Mr. Hamilton, riding in the front seat, hit his head against the windshield.

His wife was suffering from shock and complained of chest pains. Her sister was also suffering from shock and a possible fractured leg.

Two In "Good" Condition

Arthur G. Wright, 24, of Midland, who was injured early Saturday morning in a one-car accident in the 700 block of Washington Street, was reported in "good" condition last night at Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

Police said Wright was operating his car west on Washington Street when he apparently lost control. It struck a set of guard rails, then rammed head-on into a tree in front of 717 Washington Street.

Late Friday night William P. Wolfington, 29, of 14 Steward Avenue, was injured when his car turned over near State Line Inn in Bedford County when it rammed into a culvert.

Attaches at Memorial Hospital, who said his condition is "good," reported he suffered injuries to his hip, spine and left leg.

Drivers Club To Get Charter

The Allegany County Teen-Age Traffic Safety Club will become the Western Maryland branch of Safe-Ten, Inc., at a meeting in the home demonstration room at the Allegany County Court House Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

A charter has been received for the local club from the international office of Safe-Ten, Inc., Lynnwood, Wash. Membership cards and bumper strips will be issued to club members who are present at Tuesday's meeting.

Formal presentation of the charter is being arranged by Lynn Walker, one of the adult advisors to the county group. Mr. Walker said city and county officials will be invited to attend the ceremony.

The purpose of the organization is to help teen-agers to become better drivers. The national group's creed is, "We drive courteously, defensively — and longer!"

Dennis W. Bobo Jr., president of the local club, stressed the importance of the meeting Tuesday and requested all members to be present.

Births

Memorial Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Roberson Jr., Hyndman, Pa., a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Coleman, 120 Oak Street, a daughter yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Zuval, 520 Sheridan Place, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Kerry D. Broll, Pattersons Creek, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Reed, 621 Bedford Street, a son Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert F. Meyers, Barton, a son Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul V. Smith, RD 2, Flintstone, a son Saturday.

Injured In Fall

Mrs. Harry H. Robinson, 822 Shriver Avenue, who sustained a fractured left arm Saturday when she fell in front of her home, is reported in "good" condition at Memorial Hospital. She was reported to have fallen over a tree stump near the front of her home.

Missionary Family

Mr. and Mrs. Gene C. Smith and their 16-month-old son Nelson will go to Haiti this fall, where the Smiths will teach in a mission school of the Church of the Nazarene. They spoke at a farewell services yesterday at First Church of the Nazarene on Oldtown Road, Mr. Smith's home church.

Couple To Teach Haitian Children In Mission School

A young couple who will become missionaries in Haiti this fall spoke at farewell services yesterday at First Church of the Nazarene, Oldtown Road.

They are Mr. and Mrs. Gene C. Smith, who will leave about September 5 to teach in a mission school operated by the board of missions of the church.

Mr. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester W. Smith, Mt. Pleasant Road, will be the first member of First Church to become a missionary in the 33-year history of the local congregation, according to Rev. H. E. Heckert, pastor.

Mr. Smith attended East Side School, graduated from Fort Hill High School in 1945, then spent two years in the Air Force before going to Eastern Nazarene College at Wollaston, Mass., where he was graduated in 1953. He did postgraduate work at the University of Maryland.

He and his wife, the former Miss Catherine Hance of Baltimore, have been teaching school at Leonardtown for the past two years in preparation for their first experience in the missionary field.

While in Haiti they will teach in English and French in a mission school, and Mrs. Smith also will be a secretary at mission headquarters in Port au Prince. Mr. Smith will assist with pastoral work in the out-of-stations.

At the farewell service yesterday morning, the church gave the Smiths a set of luggage. The Home Builders Class gave them outdoor-type chairs, the Young Peoples Society gave them a set of trays, and the Mission Society gave them a cash gift. The Smiths also spoke at a Young Peoples service last night.

The four were admitted to the hospital following the head-on collision on U. S. Route 219 two miles south of Meyersdale Friday evening about 5:10 p.m.

Attendees at Washington County Hospital, Hagerstown, also reported Miss Lavoyce Blair, 21, of Baltimore "improving" from critical injuries she received in a two-car accident on U. S. Route 40 near Clear Spring on July 19.

Miss Blair was hurt when the car in which she was a passenger crashed into another vehicle operated by William F. Spates of Frost Avenue, Frostburg.

Spates' 12-year-old son, Edward F. Spates, and the driver of the other car, Gilbert A. Dukeman, 29, of Baltimore, were fatally injured in the collision.

Fractures Elbow

Ann Paula Beable, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Beable, 41 Memorial Avenue, fractured her elbow while playing at her home. She was treated at Memorial Hospital and her arm was placed in a cast. Mr. Beable is principal of Valley High School in Lonaconing.

Many New Biographies Added To Library Shelves

Many new and interesting biographies have been added to the Cumberland Free Public Library's junior collection, according to Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian.

Miss Elizabeth Cain, an assistant to the librarian, has prepared brief reviews of some of the volumes which have been suggested as excellent summer vacation reading for the younger set.

Outstanding among these volumes are "Henry Bergh" by Alvin F. Harlow, and "Young Man In a Hurry" by Jean Lee Latham. WOODROW WILSON

P. MICHAEL WILSON

Frostburg College Grads Take Silver Spring Posts

Two area graduates of Frostburg State Teachers College have accepted teaching positions at Sligo Junior High School, Silver Spring.

They are P. Michael Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs.

Edward Wilson, 630 Brookefield Avenue, and Woodrow Wilson of Frostburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fern E. Wilson, 312 Caroline Street.

P. Michael Wilson, who graduated from Fort Hill High School, was a member of the high school band, having played the bass drum.

Woodrow Wilson, who also graduated from Fort Hill, was a member of the band. He was in the service prior to going to college in Frostburg.

Both men were members of the DK fraternity at Frostburg State Teachers. They are not related.

Credit Union League Views Expansion

Members of the Western Maryland Credit Union League, meeting at Westernport, discussed plans for forming additional local and area credit unions and other questions of interest to the league.

Fred B. Griffith Sr., league president said that 36 members attended the meeting in Local 676 Credit Union headquarters at Westernport, representing credit unions from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Kelly Springfield Tire Company, the Al Gar Credit Union, CCSAC, Teamsters, Telephone Company, School Teachers, Retail Clerks and Local 676.

Guests included Raymond Evans, Federal Credit Union examiner; S. J. Domenick, managing director of Maryland Credit Union League; and two field representatives, R. J. Rowland and C. W. Hackman.

The league discussed a new plan of disability insurance offered members, and a retirement insurance plan for credit union employees. Mr. Domenick said he had requested Vincent Fansler to attend a future meeting to discuss the retirement plan. He also suggested that members view a film, "A Picture of Unity," now available.

Mr. Domenick advised the local group that James W. Grant has accepted an invitation to be principal speaker at the Credit Union Day celebration being planned for this area.

Representatives will attend a meeting of Works 7, Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company employees on September 17 to discuss the possible formation of a credit union for them.

Second Session On Fire Tax Planned Friday

LaVale Firemen Call Meeting

A second meeting to inform the qualified voters of LaVale about the proposed LaVale fire tax which will be the subject of a referendum on Tuesday, August 18, has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday in the LaVale Fire Hall.

The first session was conducted on July 10, when about 75 persons came to the Fire Hall to discuss the proposal for the fire tax, which would not exceed 10 cents on each $100 of assessable property. A final meeting is called for August 14, the Friday before the special election.

At the July 10 meeting, the participants were told that the tax would help provide funds to maintain and operate the volunteer fire department in LaVale, which has been in operation 26 years.

The LaVale firemen would be required to submit an annual budget to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners. All other sources of revenue, such as profit from activities sponsored by the department, would be deducted from the budget before the Commissioners would set the levy.

LaVale's total assessable basis has been reported as $9,659,000. A 10-cent rate on each $100 of assessable property would yield $9,659. If the fire tax is approved, the volunteer firemen would discontinue their annual fund raising drive, which nets about $5,000 each year.

There was a heavy registration and transfer spurt at the office of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors in the Court House as a number of residents made sure they can vote on August 18. Some 76 persons either registered or transferred in LaVale's Election District 29 in July up to the July 18 deadline for registrations.

Judges named by the board of Election Supervisors to handle the August 18 referendum at the Fire Hall are Pauline O. Chemoval, Anne Kammauf, Leo C. Dressman, Charles D. Long, Thomas L. Smith and Flossie L. Alexander, all chief judges; Helen T. Goldsworthy and Lucille Rice, machine judges.

Six Injured In Weekend Auto Wrecks

Two Accidents Occur In City

Six persons were injured in a series of weekend auto accidents, two of which occurred within the city limits.

Robert Flanigan, 18, of Ridgeley, W. Va., was admitted to Memorial Hospital early yesterday morning with injuries sustained when the car in which he was riding overturned in South End.

The driver of the car, Michael E. Smith, of RD 2, Morgantown, W. Va., who apparently was not hurt, posted $101.45 bond at the city jail after being charged with reckless driving.

Police said Flanigan complained of injuries to his right arm, shoulder and ribs. The accident occurred when the car, apparently traveling at too great a speed, turned over on River Avenue near Potomac Street and slid some distance on its top.

Hamilton Injured
Stanley O. Hamilton, 63, of 1902 Frederick Street, former chairman of the Allegany County Board of Alcohol Beverage License Commissioners, was injured severely about the head and face in a one-car crash late Saturday night at the intersection of North Mechanic Street and the U.S. Route 40 by-pass.

His wife Martha, 62, and her sister, Miss Dorah Louise Dowd, 57, of RD 2, Frostburg also were injured. All three were admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital.

Last night Mr. Hamilton was reported in "good" condition, and his wife and sister-in-law were in "satisfactory" condition.

City Police said the accident occurred when Mrs. Hamilton, who was driving, apparently lost control of the car and rammed into a utility pole. Mr. Hamilton, riding in the front seat, hit his head against the windshield.

His wife was suffering from shock and complained of chest pains. Her sister was also suffering from shock and a possible fractured leg.

Two In "Good" Condition
Arthur G. Wright, 24, of Midland, who was injured early Saturday morning in a one-car accident in the 700 block of Washington Street, was reported in "good" condition last night at Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

Police said Wright was operating his car west on Washington Street when he apparently lost control. It struck a set of guard rails, then rammed head-on into a tree in front of 717 Washington Street.

Late Friday night William P. Wolfington, 29, of 14 Steward Avenue, was injured when his car turned over near State Line Inn in Bedford County when it rammed into a culvert.

Attaches at Memorial Hospital, who said his condition is "good," reported he suffered injuries to his hip, spine and left leg.

Drivers Club To Get Charter

The Allegany County Teen-Age Traffic Safety Club will become the Western Maryland branch of Safe-Teen, Inc., at a meeting in the home demonstration room at the Allegany County Court House Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

A charter has been received for the local club from the international office of Safe-Teen, Inc., Lynwood, Wash. Membership cards and bumper strips will be issued to club members who are present at Tuesday's meeting.

Formal presentation of the charter is being arranged by Lynn Walker, one of the adult advisors to the county group. Mr. Walker said city and county officials will be invited to attend the ceremony.

The purpose of the organization is to help teen-agers to become better drivers. The national group's creed is, "We drive courteously, defensively — and longer!"

Dennis W. Bobo Jr., president of the local club, stressed the importance of the meeting Tuesday and requested all members to be present.

Births

Injured in Fall

Mrs. Harry H. Robinson, 822 Shriver Avenue, who sustained a fractured left arm Saturday when she fell in front of her home, is reported in "good" condition at Memorial Hospital. She was reported to have fallen over a tree stump near the front of her home.

Missionary Family

Mr. and Mrs. Gene C. Smith and their 16-month-old son Nelson will go to Haiti this fall, where the Smiths will teach in a mission school of the Church of the Nazarene. They spoke at a farewell services yesterday at First Church of the Nazarene on Oldtown Road, Mr. Smith's home church.

Couple To Teach Haitian Children In Mission School

A young couple who will become missionaries in Haiti this fall spoke at farewell services yesterday at First Church of the Nazarene, Oldtown Road.

They are Mr. and Mrs. Gene C. Smith, who will leave about September 5 to teach in a mission school operated by the board of missions of the church.

Mr. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester W. Smith, Mt. Pleasant Road, will be the first member of First Church to become a missionary in the 33-year history of the local congregation, according to Rev. H. E. Heckert, pastor.

Mr. Smith attended East Side School, graduated from Fort Hill High School in 1945, then spent two years in the Air Force before going to Eastern Nazarene College at Wollaston, Mass., where he was graduated in 1953. He did postgraduate work at the University of Maryland.

He and his wife, the former Miss Catherine Hance of Baltimore, have been teaching school at Leonardsville for the past two years in preparation for their first experience in the missionary field.

While in Haiti they will teach in English and French in a mission school, and Mrs. Smith also will be a secretary at mission headquarters in Port au Prince. Mr. Smith will assist with pastoral work in the out-of-stations.

At the farewell service yesterday morning, the church gave the Smiths a set of luggage. The Home Builders Class gave them outdoor-type chairs, the Young Peoples Society gave them a set of trays, and the Mission Society gave them a cash gift. The Smiths also spoke at a Young Peoples service last night.

The four were admitted to the hospital following the head-on collision on U.S. Route 219 two miles south of Meyersdale Friday evening about 5:10 p.m.

Attendees at Washington County Hospital, Hagerstown, also reported Miss Lavoyce Blair, 21, of Baltimore "improving" from critical injuries she received in a two-car accident on U.S. Route 40 near Clear Spring on July 19.

Miss Blair was hurt when the car in which she was a passenger crashed into another vehicle operated by William F. Spates of Frost Avenue, Frostburg.

Spates' 12-year-old son, Edward P. Spates, and the driver of the other car, Gilbert A. Dukeman, 29, of Baltimore, were fatally injured in the collision.

Fractures Elbow

Ann Paula Beable, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Beable, 41 Memorial Avenue, fractured her elbow while playing at her home. She was treated at Memorial Hospital and her arm was placed in a cast. Mr. Beable is principal of Valley High School in Lonaconing.

Many New Biographies Added To Library Shelves

Many new and interesting biographies have been added to the Cumberland Free Public Library's junior collection, according to Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian.

Members of the Western Maryland Credit Union League, meeting at Westernport, discussed plans for forming additional local and area credit unions and other questions of interest to the league.

Fred B. Griffith Sr., league president said that 36 members attended the meeting in Local 676 Credit Union headquarters at Westernport, representing credit unions from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Kelly Springfield Tire Company, the Al Gar Credit Union, CCSAC, Teamsters, Telephone Company, School Teachers, Retail Clerks and Local 676.

Guests included Raymond Evans, Federal Credit Union examiner; S. J. Domenick, managing director of Maryland Credit Union League; and two field representatives, R. J. Rowland and C. W. Hackman.

The league discussed a new plan of disability insurance offered members, and a retirement insurance plan for credit union employees. Mr. Domenick said he had requested Vincent Fansler to attend a future meeting to discuss the retirement plan. He also suggested that members view a film, "A Picture of Unity," now available.

Mr. Domenick advised the local group that James W. Grant has accepted an invitation to be principal speaker at the Credit Union Day celebration being planned for this area.

Representatives will attend a meeting of Works 7, Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company employees on September 17 to discuss the possible formation of a credit union for them.

The league, by unanimous resolution, praised the efforts of Rep. John R. Foley, congressman from this Maryland district, for attempting to revise and strengthen the Credit Union Act. Mr. Griffith urged that all credit union members write to government representatives to encourage their interest in credit union legislation.

Second Session On Fire Tax Planned Friday

LaVale Firemen Call Meeting

A second meeting to inform the qualified voters of LaVale about the proposed LaVale fire tax which will be the subject of a referendum on Tuesday, August 18, has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday in the LaVale Fire Hall.

The first session was conducted on July 10, when about 75 persons came to the Fire Hall to discuss the proposal for the fire tax, which would not exceed 10 cents on each $100 of assessable property. A final meeting is called for August 14, the Friday before the special election.

At the July 10 meeting, the participants were told that the tax would help provide funds to maintain and operate the volunteer fire department in LaVale, which has been in operation 26 years.

The LaVale firemen would be required to submit an annual budget to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners. All other sources of revenue, such as profit from activities sponsored by the department, would be deducted from the budget before the Commissioners would set the levy.

LaVale's total assessable basis has been reported as $9,659,000. A 10-cent rate on each $100 of assessable property would yield $9,659. If the fire tax is approved, the volunteer firemen would discontinue their annual fund raising drive, which nets about $5,000 each year.

There was a heavy registration and transfer spurt at the office of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors in the Court House as a number of residents made sure they can vote on August 18. Some 76 persons either registered or transferred in LaVale's Election District 29 in July up to the July 18 deadline for registrations.

Judges named by the board of Election Supervisors to handle the August 18 referendum at the Fire Hall are Pauline O. Cheno-wich, Anne Kammauf, Leo C. Dressman, Charles D. Long, Thomas L. Smith and Flossie L. Alexander, all chief judges; Helen T. Goldworthy and Lucille Rice, machine judges.

Certain Types Income Tax Due July 31

Employers are reminded that several types of tax returns are due by July 31, according to Ellis R. Rogers, acting district director of Internal Revenue for the Baltimore District.

Returns are due from employers who file quarterly federal tax returns, (Form 941). This combined return is for reporting withholding and Social Security taxes on employees for the second quarter of 1959.

Employers who have domestic servants such as cooks, janitors, maids, chauffeurs, and other workers who perform services of a household nature, are subject to Social Security taxes (Form 942) if $50 or more was paid in wages in the second quarter of this year.

Returns from persons liable for quarterly excise tax returns (Form 720) are due July 31. Excise taxes include taxes on facilities and services, manufacturing excise taxes and taxes on products and commodities.

Where the withholding, Social Security and excise taxes exceed $100 a month, the depository receipt system must be used.

The acting director requested employers to use the pre-addressed forms they received in the mail. Mr. Rogers said it helps to expedite the handling of the returns and insures proper credit to the account.

State Farmers Get Reminder

Maryland farmers who have entered into Soil Bank Conservation Reserve contracts drew an eight-point reminder from William L. Dudley, chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

He summarized the farmer's responsibility under his contract as follows:

1. No crop of any kind may be harvested from Conservation Reserve land; 2. no grazing is permitted on any Conservation Reserve land; 3. vegetative cover must be established and/or maintained on Conservation Reserve land; 4. if a conservation practice has been authorized for Conservation Reserve land and the practice has not been established by the designated date, the county ASAC office should be notified at once.

Also, 5. if all eligible land is in the Conservation Reserve, no soil bank base crops can be grown; 6. if only part of the eligible land is in the Conservation Reserve, a farmer must not exceed his permitted acreage of soil bank base crops; 7. comply with any acreage allotment in effect on the farm, and 8. control noxious weeds on Conservation Reserve land.
